

A QUEEN IS PROCLAIMED

DRAPED DRUMS SILENT

Old London Salutes 'Good Queen Bess'

BY EDWARD CURTIS

LONDON — (AP) — Bannered trumpets sounded and field pieces boomed today as Britain drew forth centuries-old pageantry to proclaim the second "Good Queen Bess" in history.

Thousands gathered to hear the solemn reading of the proclamation from a high balcony of St. James's Palace.

They were a sombre throng, dressed in the dull colors of mourning for their King.

At precisely 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EST.) a tiny bell tinkled behind the high walls of the palace yard.

Guns Begin To Boom. The trumpeters sounded another flourish after he completed the proclamation.

The band of the Coldstream Guards, their drums draped and unused played the anthem, "God Save The Queen."

As its last notes sounded, the saluting guns began to boom. Those on Tower Hill, three miles down the Thames from Buckingham palace, fired a salute of 63 guns.

The garter king-of-arms, Sir George Bellwe, stepped forward, wearing a richly-embroidered tabard, a short, loose-sleeved jacket of 15th century style.

Burst of Sunlight. His voice—deadened by traffic sounds—came over a specially installed public address system almost inaudibly.

But at the end one phrase came through clear and distinct: "God Save the Queen."

When Bellew had nearly finished, a burst of sunlight dazzled the crowd in the square and the

Trafalgar Square Ceremony

The ceremony at St. James's Palace took only three minutes.

A procession of five carriages then wheeled out from the Palace, at the trot. The gold, silver and scarlet of the uniformed Household Cavalry, led the way, clattering down the broad Mall and through Admiralty Arch into Trafalgar Square.

In the crush of the crowd several persons fainted. In Trafalgar Square other thousands packed themselves around the base of Nelson's column.

Grenadier Guards Band. In front of the statue of Charles I, on the Charing Cross side of the square, the band of the Grenadier Guards was drawn up, their drums draped in crepe.

The state procession drew up beneath the statue. The Lancaster Herald, A. G. B. Russell, in colorful robes and cocked hat, rose in his carriage.

He unrolled his manuscript and again read the proclamation. In a loud voice he ended with "God Save the Queen." He raised his hat and again the trumpeters blasted a fanfare.

The procession moved off down The Strand toward the Old City of London.

A pale sun shone on the neo-Gothic law court buildings as the scarlet-robed city sheriffs lined up in the middle of the street at Temple Bar for the ceremonial challenging of the Queen's Men

Elizabeth II Proclaimed In Glittering Pageantry

CROWDS MOURN KING

In sorrow as in joy loyal Britons instinctively turn to Buckingham Palace. Early Wednesday morning, when news came of the death of the king, shocked, almost unbelieving Londoners made their familiar way to the Palace. Old, middle-aged and young (there is a baby in the perambulator at left), early arrivals are shown gathering outside the Palace gates.

Korean Allies To Answer New Red Peace Proposal

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — Armistice negotiators will hold a full-dress session tomorrow to hear the Allies' answer to a Communist proposal for a high-level conference to settle all Asian questions related to peace in Korea.

Some observers said they expect the U.N. reply to include a counter-proposal.

The Reds' three-point plan was offered Wednesday as an outline of proposed recommendations to governments involved in the Korean war. It calls for a conference within three months after an armistice is signed to consider withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, peaceful settlement of the Korean question and other questions relating to the Korean problem.

Washington sources said the United States is prepared to accept the first two points, but will balk at the third, which could include such subjects as the future of Formosa.

The plenary session on armistice agenda item five is set for Saturday in Panmunjom.

Neither group made noticeable progress Friday.

Crowned Heads Will Attend Rites

LONDON — (AP) — The crowned heads of at least six countries are expected to attend the state funeral of King George VI next Friday.

France will be represented by President Vincent Auriol, Prime Minister Edgar Faure and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

President Truman is sending State Secretary Dean Acheson as his representative.

Ambassador Georgi Zarubin is considered the probable choice to take part in the rites for Russia.

Other countries will be represented by relatives of reigning royalty or senior diplomats in the British capital.

Royal heads of state expected to pay their last homage in person include: King Gustav VI and Queen Louise of Sweden.

King Paul of Greece. King Haakon VII of Norway. King Frederik IX of Denmark.

Queen Juliana of The Netherlands, and her husband, Prince Bernhard.

King Feisal of Iraq. King Farouk of Egypt, who as crown prince attended the funeral of King George V in 1936, is sending his cousin, Prince Abdul Moineim.

Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia will delegate one of his sons to make the trip from his desert kingdom.

Million May Pay Tribute

LONDON — (Reuters) — Starting Tuesday at 8 a.m. the first of perhaps 1,000,000 mourners will shuffle past a towering dais in Westminster Hall here on which will lie in state the body of King George VI.

The royal coffin will be brought to London Monday from Sandringham, where the King died. It will be taken to Westminster Hall, part of Westminster Palace which contains the House of Commons, where it will lie in state until the funeral Friday.

Westminster Hall will be open to the public between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. until Thursday night and, if the death of King George V is anything to go by, more than 1,000,000 Britons will pay their respects during these times.

They will file slowly past a dais rising in five stages from a low platform 42 feet long. The last step will bear the late monarch's coffin which, draped with the Union Jack, will bear his crown.

Made of pine from British Columbia, the dais will be covered with black and mauve velvet. Four eight-foot candles will burn, one at each corner and by the King's head, a cross of burnished gold will stand.

Guardsmen in full-dress uniform will mount guard at each corner of the dais, their heads bowed over reversed arms. Yeomen of the guard from the Tower of London will have their parts in the solemn day and night vigil.

Repair Work Halted. But during a truce the Allied bombers would stay at home and the fields could be repaired.

Weyland said the Reds worked frantically for a time to get jet fields into operation.

However, repair work virtually has stopped, Weyland said, "presumably because they weren't getting anywhere because of our B-29s."

Canada to Hold Holiday Friday

OTTAWA — (CP) — Only the courts, banks and federal government offices will be required to close Friday, Feb. 15, the day of the King's funeral, under a federal proclamation issued yesterday.

The proclamation appoints the funeral date "as a public holiday to be observed as a day of general mourning by all persons throughout Canada." Under the law, it is binding only on banks and federal institutions.

Officials said it will be up to the provinces and the municipalities to issue their own proclamations requiring the closing of their offices and stores and other business establishments. Some cities already have proclaimed the day one of civic mourning.

Canadian Touch Given To Royal Proclamation

LONDON — (AP) — A Canadian touch was given the ancient ceremonies attending the proclamation of the Queen's accession in a Welsh county today.

Senator Rupert Davies, president of the Kingston Whig-Standard, in his capacity as high sheriff of Montgomeryshire, visited several towns in the county to read the proclamation.

Feudal Ceremonies Held All Across The Land

LONDON — (CP) — With a trumpet fanfare, a roll of drums and a 62-gun salute, Britain's young Queen today was proclaimed "Elizabeth II, by the grace of God" in a glittering pageant dating back 1,000 years.

Bright wintry sunshine lit this city, heart of the British Commonwealth, as the proclamation was read at historic St. James's palace and all cities and towns in the land.

An hour earlier the 25-year-old Elizabeth, pale and wan at the death of her father, had told 200 of her privy councillors: "I pray that God will help me to discharge worthily this heavy task that has been laid upon me so early in my life."

Before the privy council—the royal body of advisers—she stood in black mourning clothes to read the solemn declaration of accession to the throne.

Thousands Waited. After today's swearing-in ceremony, Elizabeth and Prince Philip left by car for Sandringham. There she will join with her mother and sister in private mourning before the coffin is removed to London.

Earlier, thousands of the Queen's subjects waited in a chill wind to hear the proclamation read.

She made her way to an anteroom of the white and gold throne room of St. James's through a private passage from her home, Clarence House, unseen by the crowds.

With her went her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh. As she read the declaration in clear, ringing voice, she was watched by the Duke of Gloucester, her father's brother, Lord Woolton, Lord President of the Council, and Prime Minister Churchill.

Princess Rises Early. She resolved to follow her father's "shining example of service and devotion," to work as he did "to uphold constitutional government and to advance the happiness and prosperity of my peoples."

Guardsmen in grey topcoats and black bearskins, their flags draped in black and drums covered, guarded the approaches to the palace.

In spite of her tiring 19-hour flight from Kenya, she was up early and attended to state and domestic affairs before going to the ceremony.

Age-old Process. More crowds surged against police barriers guarding the car as it pulled out of the Clarence House driveway.

She waved slightly with a faint sad smile on her face. Phillip looked gravely straight ahead.

Meanwhile the age-old machinery of the royal proclamation went into motion, sweeping aside for a brief time the mourning for the King.

Union Jacks, lowered to half-staff since the death of King George VI two days ago, waved at their accustomed height throughout the realm as the royal proclamation was read to the people. After six hours they were to be lowered again, to remain at half-staff until the King's funeral Feb. 15.

Bright Sunshine. In London, a fanfare of trumpets sounded from the balcony of St. James's Palace, where the new Queen had made her declaration of accession an hour earlier in a simple 15-minute ceremony.

In bright sunshine, the liveried garter king-of-arms, Sir George Bellew, read the statement by the accession council declaring the 25-year-old sovereign, "Queen of this realm and of her other realms and territories, head of the commonwealth, Defender of the Faith."

Other heralds, in picturesque 15th-century dress then read the proclamation at Charing Cross, from the steps of the Royal Exchange and from just inside the Temple Bar. A fifth reading was given by Col. James Carkeet, governor of the Tower of London, as he stood in the courtyard surrounded by a square of Yeomen of the Guard, clad in the uniforms of the age of the first Elizabeth.

Body Lies in State. A 62-gun accession salute boomed across the Thames from the tower guns as he finished.

Meanwhile at Sandringham, where Queen Elizabeth will pay homage to her father later today, the King's body, clad in the uniform of an admiral of the Fleet, lay in state in a plain oak coffin. Later today, it will be carried 200 yards to the little 16th-century royal chapel of St. Mary Magdalene.

At the chapel the King's people — his farmers, gamekeepers, woodsmen and villagers from West Newton, Deringsham, Shernborne, Fritcham, Wolferston, Castle Rising and Hillington, which nestle under the royal walls — will take their last leave of the man they called their sire.

Neighbors Pay Respects. There will be a short service in the chapel Monday. Then the coffin will be placed on a gun carriage and a guard of honor of 20 grenadiers will draw the cortege slowly down the two-mile-long roadway banked drive to the railway station.

By train the coffin will travel to London to lie in state at Westminster Hall, in the Palace of Westminster.

Throughout yesterday a string of motorcars drew up at the east lodge by the jubilee gates of Sandringham House. One by one, the King's neighbors and friends came to pay their respects in the traditional manner by signing the visitors' book.

A few wore mourning clothes. Others had mourning bands on their sleeves. Those who signed had been presented at court or were known personally to the royal family.

Queenly Qualities. Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret remained in seclusion throughout the day. At dusk last night, as rain began to fall, lights burned in only one room of the house.

The Queen's 130-mile trip to Sandringham will be the last stage of a sorrowing 4,000-mile journey from the animal ranges in East Africa where Wednesday the tidings of the King's sudden passing and her own accession to the throne came to her.

Elizabeth displayed her queenly qualities when she returned, pale but composed, in yesterday's gathering dusk to the homeland she left just one week and four hours earlier on a holiday and state tour with her husband. It was to have taken them around the world, through Ceylon, Australia, and New Zealand.

There was a heavy sadness to her eyes, but she showed no other outward effect of her grief for the burdening weight of day, the King's body, clad in the new responsibilities.

Trading opened briskly and continued steadily. Volume for the session was about 3,000,000 shares.
Liquors and manufacturing companies posted a majority of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Utilities, foods, banks and textiles also drew firm support but agricultures and refining oils weakened.
Senior golds posted gains ranging from pennies to $2 as Bralorne, Dome, Giant Yellowknife, Hollinger, Lake Shore, Malartic, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves pushed upward.
Western oils were mixed. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Williston, Devon-Leduc, North Canadian, Royalite and Western Leaseholds climbed strongly but Central Explorers and Pacific Petroleum dipped.
Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 370,000 bushels to French North Africa, 350,000 to Belgium and a small cargo to Lebanon.
Class two wheat and L.W.A. prices were unchanged from yesterday.

LEGISLATURE ROUND-UP

Royal Commission Seen On Sask. Agriculture

REGINA - (CP) - In sombre mourning for the late King George VI, the Saskatchewan legislature opened yesterday. Members heard Lt.-Gov. W. J. Patterson read a throne speech outlining government plans for the next year. The government promised to set up a Royal Commission on agricultural problems. Terms of reference for the commission will be presented to the session, which is the fifth of the 11th legislature.

Solemn Opening
The lieutenant-governor, speaking to his first regular session since his appointment last summer, took part in an opening which was completely lacking in the usual color. Due to the death of the King, there was no R.C.M.P. escort to legislative buildings, no honor guard, no band, no flower-decorated rotunda and no gun salute. Other main points of the throne speech:

- To prevent economic discrimination against female workers, legislation will be introduced providing equal pay for equal work between sexes;
- In line with recommendations of the Britnell report on provincial-municipal relations, the province will make payments to municipalities in lieu of taxes on its commercial property and will also move to form a municipal advisory commission;
- Recipients of old-age assistance pensions - those in the 65-69 age group, who this year for the first time are receiving meanest pensions - will be given free hospital care beginning in 1953;
- Legislation will be introduced allowing citizens to sue the province without first obtaining permission from the government;
- New legislation for conservation of oil and natural gas will be introduced.

It was announced earlier that the legislature would be asked to appoint a committee from its members to investigate "the high price of farm implements."

Everyone attending the opening wore dark clothes. Members wore black ties and assembly officials black armbands.

A brief review of farm problems led up to the promise to form a Royal Commission on agriculture. Bad harvesting weather in 1951 and insufficient transportation had hit the farmers, the throne speech said. A low initial price for wheat had denied to farmers "their rightful share of the national income."

In addition, the province felt that special federal-backed bank loans being made to farmers needing cash were not adequate.

Golden Jubilee Program
In view of such problems and of the changing farm economy which makes it "increasingly difficult for young farmers to become established," the legislature would be asked to set up the Royal Commission.

The speech confirmed that a new tax-rental agreement between the province and federal government would be presented to the legislature for ratification. No details were given.

Legislation will be introduced to set up a committee to arrange the golden jubilee celebration of the formation of Saskatchewan, which will take place in 1955.

The throne speech said the government was studying methods by which farmers who do not own mineral rights on their land will benefit from the discovery of oil.

To Study Gas Distribution
In addition, the government said it was giving continuous study to

Family Appeal Sought For TV

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD - (AP) - Dennis Day, whose television show makes its debut tonight, predicts home viewers will be getting less plunging necklines and racy stories in the future.

"Sex has got to go, as far as TV is concerned," he said. "Sex was exploited during the early days, when TV was trying to gain attention. You still see quite a bit of it; I hear some comedians telling stories that make me blush."

"But I think the industry is growing up. It doesn't need sex any more. Furthermore, if the shows aren't cleaned up, TV will be inviting censorship from outside sources, which would be bad."

Day has stuck by these theories in his selection of a co-star for his show. He considered a couple of dozen singers, including many glamorous types. He passed them up for a demure unknown, Kathy Phillips.

"I picked her for two reasons," Day explained. "First of all, she fits the story. The part calls for a girl who lives next door, and I'd look pretty silly playing my kind of character opposite some sex glamor girl."

"Also I wanted the kind of a girl who would appeal to a family audience. I realize from watching my kids that a large part of the TV audience consists of children."

As for radio, he expressed the exact sentiments of Bob Hope and Marie Wilson: "Compared to TV, radio is like stealing money."

Day dropped the news that this will probably be the last season of the Jack Benny radio show. Sponsors no longer want to pay big money for radio, he explained. Day will be able to make occasional appearances on Benny's TV show, which is expected to start in the fall on a fortnightly basis.

Education Seen Decreasing Dangers of Lead Poisoning

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
"I fear" writes A. G. A., "that my brother, who is sick, is troubled with paint poisoning. Would you describe the effects?"

Paint, of course, is made up of a number of chemicals, but probably this correspondent means lead poisoning, which at least in the past was the most common and important type of poisoning resulting from paint.

Before discussing lead poisoning, however, it should be pointed out that paint manufacturers and other industries using lead have developed many precautionary methods, so that lead poisoning is now almost a vanishing industrial disease.

Severe Pains
Lead can be absorbed through the lungs, skin, or the digestive organs. Although the body takes lead into the system easily, it does not get rid of it so well.

If lead poisoning begins suddenly, a large amount of lead must have been absorbed rapidly, usually through the stomach. Pain in the abdomen, vomiting, and collapse are symptoms of that acute form. Severe colicky pains and rapidly developing anemia with a typical white waxy color of the skin is frequent.

Examination of the blood in such cases shows a peculiar appearance to the red cells when they are stained in a particular manner and examined under the microscope.

A blue line around the gums is administered the oath to the 40 other legislative members on behalf of the lieutenant-governor.

Meat Price Drop Continues Here

Reductions up to as much as seven cents a pound have occurred in beef prices in Prince Albert within the last month, according to a retail butcher here today.

The biggest drop in price occurred on sirloin steaks, said the retailer. The decrease per pound on this popular cut of beef amounted to seven cents in a month.

Previously sirloin steak sold 92 cents a pound and today the consumer can buy the same cut for 85 cents a pound, he said.

One of the reasons for the decline is the lower United States market, according to packing plants in the city. Yesterday the packing plants stated that cattle dropped to $1 to $1.50 a 100 pounds and that the eastern Canadian market "has completely demoralized the western market."

Reduction General
Dealers here also credit the drop in beef due to the increasing popularity of lower priced pork and the uncertain market. Prices in Regina, Saskatoon and Moose Jaw have also taken a plunge downward. In Saskatoon, dealers there also agreed that lower pork prices have caused the decrease in beef prices and added that the Canadian market has been out of line with the American market since last September.

The American market was said to have steadied last August when legislation placed a ceiling on prices from the American wholesaler to the retailer.

Lard Price Drop
The retailer said the reason for the lard products' price increase was because of the "seasonable shortage."

A retailer grocer stated that lard has dropped four cents within the last week. The previous price for lard per pound was 25 cents and now it is retailing at 21 cents. He stated that it will likely go down to 20 cents a pound before the weekend.

According to the packing plants, the drop in this product is attributed to the fact that fat and oil products have gone down to practically nothing since last fall.

Drivers Warned of Danger In Failing To Dim Car Lights

R.C.M.P. today issued a warning that it is not only uncourteous but dangerous for drivers to neglect to dim their headlights and failing to keep to the right of the road when approaching an oncoming car.

With the appearance of two such uncourteous drivers in R.C.M.P. court today they stated that any more offenders will be prosecuted.

A $5 and costs fine was handed down to Thomas Hulme, Jr., of the Prince Albert district when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to dim the headlights of his vehicle when approaching another car, and a fine of $10 and costs was given Michael Sulewski of Henribourg when he pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to keep properly over on the right side of the road.

Clearance Lights
Both men appeared before Justice of the Peace R. E. Dunning.

Also appearing in R.C.M.P. court before Justice of the Peace Dunning, Walter Heilig of Pad-dockwood was fined $10 and costs for failing to have proper clearance lights on his truck.

Woman Fined
A fine of $25 and costs was handed down to Olga Tigen, of the city in city police court today when she pleaded guilty to a charge of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling. She appeared before Magistrate W. G. Elder Q. C.

Liquor Charge
Pleading guilty to a charge of having liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, Robert Brown, of the city, was fined $25 and costs in city police court today. He appeared before Magistrate W. G. Elder Q. C.

Third Person Fined In City Court For Failure To Pay Hospital Tax

The third person this year to be convicted for failing to pay 1952 hospitalization tax appeared in city police court yesterday.

A fine of $5 and costs was handed down to Howard Peters, 2120 Sixth Avenue West when he pleaded guilty to the charge. He was ordered by Magistrate W. G. Elder Q. C. to pay the tax amounting to $20 immediately.

According to J. W. Oliver, city treasurer, this was the third such charge laid this year.

Regina Charge
"When a person goes to the hospital the bill is sent direct to Regina. If officials there find that the person has not paid his tax then the bill is rejected and steps are taken to have that person pay his tax up to date," he said.

According to Mr. Oliver, charges are laid direct from Regina and only as a last resort.

Personal Thanks
Personal thanks were extended by the rector to Bishop Martin for his ever ready assistance and interest during the year, and also to the Ven. W. E. J. Paul, Canon W. F. Payton, Rev. H. Ellis, Rev. N. D. Pilcher and the Rev. A. J. Serase.

DOUBLE CHECK PLANNED

PA Stretches Spell Of Warm Weather

The weatherman has parlayed Prince Albert's warm spell into its eleventh day.

But he hasn't set a record. Prince Albertans enjoyed "above zero" temperatures from February 14 to March 3 in 1951. But he still has ample opportunity to equal the 1951 span as the forecast today is for "sunny and a little milder temperatures than yesterday. Mercury is expected to boost to 25 degrees above zero today."

Meanwhile, F. C. Bray, Board of Trade commissioner, is getting set to double check Prince Albert temperature readings which for the official record are taken at the air port.

Downtown Check
Mr. Bray is obtaining a thermometer, the same type as used at the meteorological office here, to set up in down-town Prince Albert. He plans to investigate the variance of temperatures between the two points.

Considerable controversy has been aroused in Saskatoon because of difference recorded in temperature readings in that city between air-port and centre of the city. Queries also have been put to Mr. Bray on Prince Albert temperatures.

"A 14-inch thermometer with a diameter of one-half inch will be set up in a central location for the purpose of comparing the temperatures and we'll announce our findings," Mr. Bray said today.

Mercury Climbs
However during the recent warm spell, there have been no complaints about cold or differences in temperatures.

Yesterday the high recorded was 15 degrees above zero. The warmest day this month was February 6 when mercury climbed to almost 37 degrees above zero.

'The Monkey's Paw' Selected As Entry In Drama Festival

"The Monkey's Paw" was chosen to represent the Prince Albert Collegiate in the North Central Saskatchewan High School Drama Festival by Mrs. Norah Shannon-Hammell at the PACI Drama Club annual "Curtain Time."

The plays were presented by the club on two evenings this week. The plays "So Wonderful in White," "Our Dream House" and "The Monkey's Paw" varied from comedy to tragedy.

Close Decision
In her adjudication, Mrs. Shannon-Hammell stated that the three plays were very close and that her final decision was made by the marks allotted.

"The Monkey's Paw", a tragedy, is directed by Miss Carmel Thornburn.

In the winning play, Sergeant-Major Morris, played by Douglas Smith, visits the home of Mr. and Mrs. White and their son Herbert. Graydon Gould and Daphne Agnew are Mr. and Mrs. White and Jim Slater plays their son.

Famous Story
The Sergeant-major and Mr. White were army friends. The Sergeant-major leaves the cursed monkey's paw which has the power of granting the owner any three wishes.

The wishes are granted but the results are tragic. The son, Herbert is killed.

Jim Cristakos plays Mr. Simpson, the man who brings the news of the son's death.

Drunk Charges
John Mattison, of Leask and Edward and Leo Goodvoice of the Roundplain reserve were each fined $5 and costs in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to charges of being found drunk in a public place.

Improved 'Sleeper' Service Sought For Flin Flon Route

Question of through sleeper service by the Canadian National Railways between Prince Albert and Flin Flon all year round has received the attention of the Chambers of Commerce at Flin Flon and Prince Albert and the C. N. R. officials at Winnipeg. F. C. Bray, Commissioner, stated today.

"Flin Flon would like to see the car operated between Flin Flon and Prince Albert go through to that city all year round. At present the sleeper is cut off at The Pas during winter months," he said.

The Canadian National general passenger agent at Winnipeg advises that steam is not available at Flin Flon except over the weekend, according to Mr. Bray.

"The possibility of operating a sleeping car through on Fridays and return from Flin Flon on Mondays is being looked into by the general passenger agent," stated Mr. Bray.

Association of Deaf Here Warn Against 'Alphabet Card Racket'

Prince Albertans are warned to be on the lookout for persons peddling cards with the alphabet used by the deaf printed on them, according to Mrs. R. Christie, secretary of the Western Canada Association for the Deaf.

"During the past number of years there have been a number of persons peddling these alphabet cards claiming it was an improved means of self maintenance. Some use the words 'educational system' to mislead the public into thinking the proceeds go toward education of the deaf," she stated.

Strong Protest
"It is very definitely a racket to work on peoples sympathies. The peddlers make a good living this way, keeping the money for their own use, and we the responsible deaf in Canada object most strenuously to it," said Mrs. Christie.

According to Chief of Police Ernest Alexander the city has not been troubled with such persons since two were told to leave the city last fall.

The Prince Albert Board of Trade are also aiding in informing them that the alphabet cards for the deaf are available free of charge and should not be purchased from peddlers, deaf or otherwise, according to F. C. Bray, commissioner.

Support For Youth Program Urged At St. Alban's Meeting

A plea for greater support of the congregation toward youth program of St. Alban's Cathedral was made by Canon W. S. Noble at the annual congregational meeting here.

"Our work would be much more effective if our youth program had the full interest and active support of the whole congregation," he stated.

During the meeting, greetings and congratulations were extended to members of the congregation by Rt. Rev. H. D. Martin, D.D., Bishop of Saskatchewan. He commended them particularly for the fact that their missionary pledge had been over paid, and that so much progress had been made in the various organizations and in the growth of the activity of the West-End Sunday school.

Church Wardens Elected
Twenty-four newly-elected Corporation members, together with the church wardens, will be installed by Bishop Martin Sunday morning in the Cathedral.

"A. L. Agnew was appointed rector's warden for 1952 with A. Allen accepting the office of people's warden for a second year," stated Canon Noble.

Church wardens A. L. Agnew and A. Allen; Lay treasurer, W. J. Rowe; Lay recorder G. M. Salter Q. C.; N. A. Pechey, W. G. Pechey and C. I. McDonald, as well as members of the various organizations praised for their work by Canon Noble.

"The highlight of the year was the opening of the Sunday school in the Westend of the city. This is a visible sign of the growing work in this parish and nothing should be allowed to deter us from doing our utmost to establish and strengthen it," he stated.

The wardens, Mr. Agnew and Mr. Allen, reported a successful year. Mr. Rowe presented the financial statement and Mr. Pechey reported on the envelope subscribers. Canon Payton gave the St. Mary's cemetery report and Mr. R. McDonald gave the report of the Rectory committee.

Ignoring Evils No Way To Protect Our Society

Communism, one of the most formidable foes ever to threaten free society, is also proving one of the slipperiest. It is no wonder that devoutly religious persons, contemplating the cleverness and ruthlessness of the attacks of the reds upon spiritual beliefs, sometimes protest in desperation that Soviet strategy is dictated by His Satanic Majesty himself.

One of the greatest evils of communism is that its agents have sheltered behind various left-wing and progressive fronts, have secured control of many altruistic organizations and made innocent members their dupes. They have hamstrung worthwhile democratic movements by manipulating them for their own ends, and having them labelled "red".

The consequent danger is that free men, unwilling to be the cause of division in the united front they feel must oppose Communism's plan for world conquest, are becoming very chary of standing up for progressive ideas.

Many who felt our democratic society needed healthy, constructive criticism if it were to thrive became afraid to join progressive organizations for fear of becoming identified with enemies of our country, particularly after Russia stepped out of the role of ally after the Second World War, and became more and more openly a sinister foe of individual freedom.

As the cold war continues, and new methods are developed of ferreting out the communists, some barriers to freedom of thought and speech are being swept away. Progressive idealists and critics of a reactionary policy, restive at the economic picture that is developing along with inflation, are finding that they can present their liberal viewpoint without providing cover for Kremlin agents.

Something of this new picture was presented early this week by External Affairs Minister L. F. Pearson in a Toronto speech, when he declared that communism cannot be defeated by force. It must be resisted by intellectual weapons and removing the conditions of poverty, misery and injustice in which it grows, Mr. Pearson declared. "To communism's dialectical materialism we must oppose spiritual faith that makes no pretense of knowing all the answers", declared Mr. Pearson.

"Refusal to yield to mass hysteria or prejudice or to abandon the right of the individual to be mistaken or to be different will be labelled treason or subversion", he said in his inaugural address as chancellor of Victoria University in Toronto. "Let us not worry too much about these false labels."

Freedom to oppose communism successfully included the obligation to be socially useful and to struggle against evil and injustice, the speaker maintained.

An insight into the workings of communism such as has never before been given in clear language appears this week in one of the most remarkable documents of our time, now appearing in a leading U.S. magazine in 10 instalments.

It is "I Was The Witness", a book by Whittaker Chambers, a confessed former Communist and key witness in the Alger Hiss case. Hiss, accused of acting as a communist agent while employed by the United States government, is serving a five-year prison term for perjury.

Chambers points out that a man sometimes becomes a communist, not because he has no ideals, but because he has very high ones. Once part of the red machine, after finding out its horrifying evil, he finds it well nigh impossible to break away. Communists, he points out, think man must change the world, and believe they must eliminate the idea of God from the mind of man.

Whatever else they think of Mr. Chambers, (and most will find sympathy for him in his attempt to explain his tragic plight) most readers will agree with him that if we are to heal the illnesses in our society, we must face them, diagnose them, and heal them properly — not gloss over them. Shutting our eyes to our own faults would make us a prey to Moscow, and communist world domination would set back man's spiritual development many ages.

Young Marksmen Need Training

"Almost every youngster has an itch to handle firearms and to go shooting," says K. N. Morris, executive director of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, "and sooner or later the chances are that he will. When this happens, it is the responsibility of his parents to make sure he knows enough about guns to handle one safely."

The only realistic safeguard against hunting accidents is proper training in the care and handling of firearms. Records maintained over 20 years by the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen and the National Rifle Association of America show that none of their members — currently more than 300,000 — has ever been responsible for a fatal hunting accident.

"When choosing their son's first gun, parents unfamiliar with firearms should talk the matter over with someone who knows firearms and shooting, and whose judgement they respect, preferably a member of an organized shooting club or association", Mr. Morris says. "Shooters are a friendly lot. In almost every Canadian community there are marksmen who will gladly give a youngster sound advice and guidance."

In return for understanding and co-operation in providing a safe, sensible outlet for a youngster's natural interest in firearms, parents will find their children gaining in the development of such character traits as self-reliance, carefulness, good sportsmanship and co-operativeness. No other sport demands these more.

New Communism, Booze Big News Topics of 1872

Special to The Herald
OTTAWA—An old Ottawa paper dated April 10, 1872, turned up the other day in the parliamentary press gallery. For newsmen who carefully unfolded and perused its yellowed eight pages it had considerably more than an antiquarian interest. It showed that some of our modern problems aren't so new after all.

For instance, there was a touch of homely familiarity about the heading "A Russian Communist" which appeared over an article on Page 2. The article described the arrest in St. Petersburg, Russia, of an artisan named Gortchevoff for "publishing proclamations with the object of overthrowing the government". Gortchevoff was said to have printed various seditious pamphlets on a hand press. One of them contained a warm eulogy of the Paris Commune and exhorted Russian youth to adopt its pattern. Another advocated the hanging of the Czarist-supporting editor of the Moscow Gazette. A third appealed to the Russian proletariat to "rise against the robbers about them" and launch a revolution which would make all men equal.

Communism 'Lunacy'
The Ottawa paper's report of the incident didn't dignify it by attributing much importance to the manifestation of Russian proletarian discontent. "The opinion generally entertained", the correspondent wrote, "was that Gortchevoff was a lunatic; but, sane or insane, he has been packed off to Siberia for life and deprived of all his rights as a citizen."

The intimation of the writer was that Communist episode was one to be reported for its element of novelty, rather than as an incident to which the Russian people, — let alone the whole world—should give any serious attention.

But is the newspaper of that day was disastrously asleep to the menace of Communism, it was fully awake to the evils of intemperance. A Brooklyn dispatch reported that "the latest device of the Devil Alcoholic is Ginger Bevy,—which, when translated means bad whiskey, disguised to the taste but not to the brain with the extract of Jamaica ginger."

Medical Opinions
In the field of medicine, the evident mood of the time was one of credulity. Thus a Dr. Wood, whose office was at Sparks and Maria Streets—now close to being the hub of the Capital — advertised to "cure cancer by a new but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process and without the use of the knife. The cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required until the cure is complete."

Communism, liquor, cancer,—those topics supplied the news in 1872 just as they do in 1952. The treatment of them was different, that was all. One topic alone was conspicuous by its absence. In the Ottawa News of April 10, 1872, there was no political column whatever,—national or international. Its four pages of newspaper didn't permit the luxury of discussion of the affairs of the day.

Fishermen Feel Ignored On Latest Defence Project

Mr. Editor:
News items about the Primrose Lake air weapons range have been appearing in the papers lately. However, Primrose Lake and the fishermen and trappers that draw their livelihood from there have been completely forgotten. Some 222,000 pounds of white fish and pickerel, 15,000 pounds of pike and 40,000 pounds of mullet (average of the last six years) have been taken annually from Primrose Lake from which the fishermen received over $24,000 annually (six year average again). Another $19,000 annually went to those who filleted or packed fish and trucked them to the nearest railroad or even straight to Prince Albert to the Saskatchewan Fish Marketing Service. Home in Region

These fishermen have their home either at Primrose Lake, where some of them have mink ranches, or they live in the Pierceland and Beakon Hill districts where they have small mixed farms. About 39 of them are Indians that live in the Legoff, Alberta reserve.

To these men the establishment of the air weapons range is a very hard blow. Those that live in the area will have to leave. The federal government has promised the fishermen and trappers an adequate compensation.

Realizing how difficult it is for an outsider to calculate their loss, the fishermen have taken the matter into their own hands. On November 24, 1951, they elected a committee of five men to work out a point system on which to calculate their individual share in the annual total income of $24,000.

Plan Presented
At a meeting held at Primrose Lake, January 23, the compensation committee presented such a plan to the fishermen who accepted it with only one vote opposing.

The secretary is now busy collecting signatures of the various fishermen. He will then bring their claims before the Department of Transport, Edmonton, the agency for the Department of National Defence who will deal with all matters pertaining to the compensation.

Before thinking of compensation the fishermen asked repeatedly that they either be allowed a short period each year to fish the lake or that the south boundary of the range be moved 13 miles farther north. As both were refused by the Department of National Defence, they have no alternative but to accept the compensation promised to them by the federal government.

They are not happy about it. The compensation the fishermen will ask will be based on the average of their annual income from fishing.

Yours very truly,
(signed) OTTO SCHRODER
Secretary,
Primrose Lake Compensation Committee

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

Argument Over Saar Basin May Delay NATO Accord

By J. M. Roberts, Jr.
Association Press News Analyst
The latest dispute between France and Germany bids fair to reduce the approaching North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting at Lisbon to a more-or-less routine discussion of fiscal affairs.

United States officials, at least, seem doubtful that anything can be done there about integrating a European army with N.A.T.O. plans, as had been hoped.

American officials thought they had things just about set for establishment of the new contractual arrangements with Germany which will replace the occupation statute, and for her inclusion in the Western defence plan.

Then a series of factors began to work.

Germans Flare Up
One major issue is the disposition of the Saar, small but rich industrial area lying between France and Germany. The French incorporated the Saar into their economy after the war, thereby considerably increasing their own industrial strength and diminishing that of Germany. But they said the ultimate disposition of the area, whose culture is heavily German, would be left until a peace treaty.

But some months ago France decided to give her high commissioner in the Saar ambassadorial rank.

Suddenly, as the Schuman Plan, the unified army and the N.A.T.O. financial and political arrangements appeared at the point of materialization, France announced the Saar item. The Germans flared up. It was, they said, a part of French determination to present her possession of the Saar as an accomplished fact before any peace conference. The French said it was merely routine.

Adenauer Speaks Out
Some diplomats, however, think France threw a monkey wrench into international planning until she can get concessions on some points, especially about the unified army plan.

The West German chancellor, Konrad Adenauer, coupled his upset over the Saar with insistence on German admission to N.A.T.O. He denied telling associates that it was a prerequisite, after the sound of an ultimatum stirred up Allied reaction.

On the Saar matter, the United States wants France to reassure Bonn with a statement that there has been no change in policy, and that the final disposition is still open. France so far hasn't done so.

There is little hope that either France or Germany will be ready for action by Feb. 16 at Lisbon.

Bright, Sturdy Prince Charles Becomes Heir To U.K. Throne

LONDON (AP)—A chubby little Prince scrambled over the nursery floor yesterday, unaware that the death of his grandfather has made him one of Britain's richest boys—with a legacy of grave responsibility.

Three-year-old Prince Charles, now heir-apparent to the British throne, spent the day much as usual, playing with his small sister Anne in hushed, grief-stricken Sandringham House, the Norfolk mansion where King George VI died.

The Prince automatically became the Duke of Cornwall, entitled to the full revenues of the Duchy of Cornwall. Mostly rents, the revenues of the Duchy amounted to £100,000 a year just before the Second World War and now probably total around £180,000. But Charles won't see the money. The estates are administered by officials who look after crown property. He eventually will get a fixed allowance instead.

Bright and Sturdy
Charles, bright and sturdy for his age, was one of King George's biggest joys in the closing months of his life. It was largely because the ailing monarch delighted so much in the company of his grandson that Charles and his sister were at Sandringham.

Charles already has learned a lot of the poise needed to carry him through the heavy duties awaiting a British king.

Nevertheless, he is just as full of fun and naughtiness as other children.

One of his favorite pranks is to run around Clarence House pressing the bells to bring servants scuttling into rooms which are deserted when they answer the call.

Born To Be A King
Later on, he will have to absorb more British history than most college professors have forgotten. He probably will be sent at about 16 to sea to become a sailor. He will have to learn as much about the British constitution as a cabinet minister knows, and study the geography, history and economics of the Commonwealth.

He probably will be sent at about 18 to one of the colleges of Oxford. He will live in ordinary student lodgings.

But he never will be able to forget that he was born to be a King.

Black, Grey Predominate For British Mourning

LONDON - (Reuters) - The blacks, navy blues and greys which dominate the spring and summer fashion collections of London's leading dressmakers will strike the keynote of every official function in Britain in the months of mourning ahead.

Designed, made and shown to the press for the first time last week, the colors used might have been selected with a sense of foreboding of what the future held.

Today, the couturiers frantically checked their stocks of black and grey materials, ready for the mourning and half-mourning orders which will now replace those expected for the big events of the season.

Person Should Study Up Jewels Before Purchasing Diamond Ring

Diamond expert Lewis S. Weber (right) inspects over $50,000 worth of jewelry as diamond polisher Henry Grossbard looks on.

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Are you at this moment, wearing a diamond? Or, do you own one that's tucked away in a safe place? Chances are good that the answer to one of both questions is yes. When you bought that diamond, how much did you know about it? And how much do you really know about it? Are you absolutely sure of its color, per weight.

Trust to Luck
Probably not. Most people stagger through the purchase of a diamond blindly, trusting to luck and what they think is their own good judgment. Some never buy diamonds at all because they are afraid to take the risk involved in such an important purchase.

All of this, according to diamond expert Louis S. Weber, is unnecessary. Anyone can familiarize himself with diamonds to the extent that he'll know exactly what he's getting. Born in Vienna, Louis Weber is a member of a family of diamond merchants. Now in New York, he often is called on to settle the matter when dealers cannot agree on the price of a stone.

In his recently published book, "Buying a Diamond? Know How!" Louis Weber rates the five factors that determine the value of a diamond in this order: first, color; second, perfection; third, brilliancy; fourth, cut; fifth, weight.

an imperfection is out of sight when the stone is set and thus doesn't interfere with its beauty; it is considered unimportant. The brilliancy of the diamond gives it its sparkle. Seen from the top, the stone should appear to be packed with dense, overlapping rays of colored scintillation that appear to be welling up from the bottom of the stone. Any break in these rays affects the brilliancy and decreases the stone's worth.

Cut Is Personal
The cut of the diamond that you pick is largely a matter of personal taste. But a round diamond can be cut to greater beauty and brilliancy than any other. In judging cut, look for pleasing proportion, so that the diamond looks well-balanced when compared to other stones and so that the pattern of brilliancy within the stone is not broken.

Diamonds smaller than a carat are measured in points one hundred to the carat. The metric carat itself is equal to exactly one-fifth of a gram. The price per carat of diamond goes up, of course, as the overall weight of the stone increases.

Once you have learned all that you can about the five factors controlling the value of a diamond, pick the concern from which you buy with care. And beware of high-pressure sales methods or installment buying. For there are, as Mr. Weber explains, no "bargains" in diamonds.

Home Permanents Reaction Safe When Used On Children's Hair

Science has come to the aid of mothers who have been trying to decide whether to give their children home permanent waves. Recent laboratory findings provide just the information worried mothers want before giving Susie or Mary a home permanent as the best way of solving their hair problems. The tests were made on a large group of children ranging in age from 4 to 12. Measurements were taken of both strength and size of individual hairs, before and after permanent waving.

Same Reaction
It was found that children's hair is no different from adult's hair. It reacts to permanents in the same way, needs the same solutions, and requires the same curling time. In general, the texture of children's hair is fine, so would require the timing suggested for fine hair. But whether it is fine, medium, or coarse, the hair should be timed for the hair texture and not for the age of the person receiving the wave.

What you want for your children's home permanents — as well as for your own — is speed with ease and safety. Both children and their mothers want to see results as soon as possible. One popular permanent wave kit contains a fixative that makes the curls last longer, eliminating the necessity for frequent rewave. A few minutes, after using the fixative you can see the curl! Then you can set the hair loosely or tightly as you want.

Skillful Style
If you are very skillful or clever with your hands you may be able to brush the hair into a style you want without setting it, but usually a "set" has more form.

Another advantage of this kit is allly efficient, and long-lasting.

THE MATURE PARENT Parents Confidence Is Needed To Help Overweight Children

By MURIEL LAWRENCE people's criticism, our overweight youngster can become a threat to us. The candy wrappers in the wastebasket will not move us to a rush of compassion for the little boy or girl who believes he must hide his need for comfort—but will be seen merely as new depressing evidence that we are inadequate parents.

Our concern becomes self-defense, not the defense of our child. Our need to justify ourselves may make us resort to all kinds of pressures to force him to release us from our uncomfortable position. We may try to criticize, "shame" or bribe him into self-control.

This is most mistaken of us. Until our overweight child has been fed a consistent, rich diet of unquestioning love over a period of time, we have no more right to expect him to forego his candy than we would have to expect a man on the top rung of a ladder to walk off into space. As soon as our lonely little fighter with fear and self-dislike feels quietness, support and love in us, instead of anxiety and criticism, he will want to tell us how worried he is. The supply lines are clearing, and as he receives the real comfort he has been seeking, he will lose his craving for the false one. He himself will say, "Would you help me try to diet, mother?"

Until her fear of disapproval is removed, until she can feel that she can expose her hunger for sweets to her mother without arousing anxiety and reproach, the communication lines between her mother and herself will be blocked. Anxiety and embarrassment is usually the problem of parents of overweight children.

A Diet Of Unquestioning Love
For some time now, the experts have been telling us that obesity is rooted in emotional difficulties, rather than physical ones. Since this knowledge has become more general, the parent of the fat child often suffers as much anxiety as the youngster over his condition. The child's pudginess cannot be hidden or disguised.

There it is, the "insecure" overweight, hinting to relatives and friends that Billy or Ellen are short-changed on home love, mother's "acceptance." If we do not get on to this fear of other the plastic turban. The turban keeps the curling solution from evaporating and gives the hair full benefit of the solution. To make an easy process all the easier and more like grown-up procedure, here are some hints from professionals:

1. A strip of cellulose sponge for applying the curling solution and fixative.
  2. A detachable shampoo spray.
  3. A cookie sheet to use as a shampoo board in the wash bowl so the child can lean back like a grown-up while her hair is being rinsed.
- Professional Permanent
There is no reason why you can't give your child a permanent wave at home that is beautiful, scientifically safe, professional, and long-lasting.

New Interests During Leisure Subtract From A Lonely Life

Their only child has recently married and gone to live a thousand miles away.

They could be finding it a lonely period in their lives, but they aren't.

And the reason they aren't is because Mrs. G. started getting ready for this change in their lives at least ten years ago.

During that time she made a real effort to broaden their friendships and to keep their old friendships well nourished.

She also made an effort to see that she and her husband shared more interests.

Then, too, she developed some new interests that were hers alone and encouraged her husband to do the same thing.

And then she began to entertain as much as she could manage.

So today, instead of being lonesome and bored and unhappy because there are only the two of them left at home, the G's are having fun.

Many Interests Fill Leisure Moments

They have plenty of interests to fill their leisure time. There are many things they enjoy together. And they have enough friends so that they still feel "needed" and important.

If Mrs. G. had waited until her daughter had left home before reorganizing their life, it might have been too late.

New sleeve treatments are apparent in these very feminine blouses for spring. Wide cuffed sleeves and collar in double layers of organdy (left) provide femininity without frills. Blouse is in Swiss woven tuck organdy. The bell sleeve (center) blossoms in transparent Swiss organdy with scalloped embroidery trimming and tucked front. Baby soft imported cotton batiste (right) makes blouse with new lantern sleeve. Detailing is in lace.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

The Australian Olympic grave danger that South will lose two trump tricks.

South must abandon trumps at once in order to run the diamonds. On the third and fourth diamonds South discards low hearts. Fortunately, East must follow suit. Dummy next takes the ace of hearts, and now East is down to four trumps and so is South.

A low heart is led from dummy, and East is obliged to ruff with the seven of spades. Does South over-ruff with the jack?

That would lose the contract. No matter how South continued, he would then lose two trump tricks.

South must under-ruff with the four of spades.

Now East must lead from his queen-nine-eight of spades. No matter how he squirms he must yield the last three tricks to declarer.

To disguise scratches on your furniture, darken by rubbing a piece of walnut, pecan or Brazil nut meat into the area — or by carefully applying a little iodine to the scratch.

You, South, hold: Spade 2, Hearts A-K-J-9-4, Diamonds K-8-5-3, Clubs A-J-7. What do you do?

Children With Weak Eyes Aided By Special Instruction In Class

By ERNEST FEDORUK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, (CP) — To most persons, it's just another classroom where children are taught their ABCs.

But room 14, Jesse Ketchum Public School, is a little different than most. It's a special sight-saving class, one of eight in Ontario.

There are three other classes in Toronto and one each in London, Windsor, Hamilton and Ottawa.

Informal Classes

The class is happier and more informal than most school rooms. The pupils, about 15 ranging in ages from six to 12, are normal and friendly.

Miss Edna Bogart is more like a mother than teacher of the children.

The difference between Room 14 and, say, the room across the hall, is the teaching method. All the children have poor vision. Only Miss Bogart faces the problem of "weeding" the children into a group, are admitted. They have less than 30/100 vision.

Many Visitors

The class receives many visitors to each other than they would in a regular grade, though their ages may vary as much as six or seven years.

were treated a skit by all members of the class, a song by the "Sunshine Service Club's" barber-shop quartet and a solo by an eight-year-old boy.

The aim of the special classes is to teach the visually-handicapped child to realize that his handicap does not need to isolate him.

MORE

"The pupil is guided and encouraged to build up his belief in his own powers," says Miss Bogart. "He learns to do, construct, listen and discuss with little reading."

Donated Articles

A phonograph donated by a Toronto service club helps the children to learn some subjects, such as history, without reading.

Equipment includes special lighting (glare is eliminated), cream-colored "sight-saving" paper on which work is done in large handwriting and special desks.

At the start of each term, Miss Bogart faces the problem of "weeding" the children into a group. She succeeds.

Children Friendly

She says the children feel closer to each other than they would in a regular grade, though their ages may vary as much as six or seven years.

VALENTINE CARDS were taken pretty seriously back in the 1880's. Gay numbers such as this one often cost as much as thirty dollars.

Mayor Extends Freedom of City

On behalf of the City and the citizens of Prince Albert, I extend a very hearty welcome to all visiting curlers taking part in the Forty-seventh Annual Bonspiel and to their friends who may avail themselves of the occasion to visit the City.

No other sport event, held in the City, brings together contestants from so many points throughout Northern Saskatchewan. This fact and the enthusiasm shown by all those participating gives the Bonspiel a special place in the annual sports calendar.

An energetic committee has been at work making preparations for the various competitions and arranging entertainment for the visitors and indications are that the Bonspiel will be a success in every respect.

I trust that all visitors will spend a most enjoyable week while in the City, and it gives me pleasure to bestow upon them the freedom of the city.

To one and all, I extend best wishes for good curling and good fellowship.

Cordially yours,
JOHN M. CUELENAERE
Mayor

THRILLS OF THE GAME

Biggest Rink
Though the rink is not officially considered to be under a single roof, the Prince Albert curling rink is now recognized as one of the largest curling rinks in Western Canada, with 15 sheets of ice in one location. All lanes are equipped with fully matched rocks, to provide the best in curling facilities to all entrants to the spiel.

Close toward midnight last year, during the final game of the Grand Challenge event, with the score standing at 11-5 for Sveinson of Saskatoon over St. Benedict's Louis Moker, the rink looked like this on the twelfth end. Fred McNeil, playing third for Sveinson looked around to see six black handled Moker rocks unopposed in the rings, tying up the count. Part of the large gallery had gone home, and many others had turned off their radios feeling that the match was all over. Sveinson went on to win in the extra end when Moker was light with a final draw shot, but the thrill was there. There is no way of knowing in advance what may happen in a curling match, but it is safe to say that there will be many thrilling moments again as some of the best shotmakers in the business tangle in their search for laurels in Prince Albert's 47th Annual Bonspiel.

Campbell Bros.
Win Aggregate

REGINA - The curtain went down on the biggest bonspiel in Regina's history yesterday and standing at the head of the parade for the third successive year were the curling Campbell Brothers of Avonlea, Sask.

The Campbells captured grand aggregate honors without throwing a rock yesterday. They were deadlocked with Aubrey Cochran of Shaunavon, Sask., with 13 wins and one defeat at the close of play Tuesday. If Cochran had continued winning, the bonspiel's highest award would have been his. But he bowed in his first game yesterday to give the honor to the Campbells.

By winning the aggregate for the third time in a row, the Campbell boys set a Bonspiel record, Jimmy Robinson of Indian Head, Sask., and the Campbells were the only rinks ever to win it twice in succession.

It was W. Orr of Grenfell, Sask., who knocked Cochran out of the running. The score was 8-4 and Orr moved into the semi-finals of the Simpson Event.

Two Rinks Entered
GOWANBRAE - Two rinks are entered in the bonspiel at Kinistino with Russel Bacon and Elmer Jones skipping. Personnel of the Bacon rink are Danile Young, Herbert Weaver and Chester Belding. On the Jones' rink are Thomas Cleghorn, Frank Boyle and Harry Waygood.

Rotund Munro Pays $25 Fine

SASKATOON - (CP) - Secretary Bill Hoy of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League last night announced that Humboldt coach Scotty Munro had been fined $25 for his actions during an inter-league game at Humboldt Wednesday night.

Munro was put out of the rink late in the first period by referee Bob Parker of Humboldt. It marked the third time this season the fiery Humboldt mentor, formerly noted for his antics with Lethbridge and Crow's Nest in the Western Canada Junior League, has been given the heave-ho from various S.J.H.L. rinks.

Secretary Hoy also said that Munro has been told to post a $100 bond with league headquarters to assure future good behavior.

HOCKEY CANCELLED FOR KING'S FUNERAL

MIDLAND, Ont. - (CP) - There will be no organized amateur hockey played in Canada Friday, Feb. 15, the day of the King's funeral.

George Dudley of Midland, manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Thursday that president D. G. Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., has issued a directive to all branches that there will be no games under its auspices that day.

Most organized hockey in the country - except in the pro leagues - comes under the C.A.H.A.

Graham Signs
NEW YORK - (AP) - Welterweight contender Billy Graham of New York and middleweight Jimmy Herring of Brooklyn were signed today to meet in the main 10 round bout at Madison Square Garden Feb. 15.

Anavets Lead Playoffs, Columbians Point Back

The midget Anavets last night remained in first place with four points, registering a 5-3 win over Legion in the P.A.N.H.L. round-robin playoffs last night at the Arena. However, the Columbians moved within striking distance of the Anavets when they smeared the winless Cosmos 10-2. Columbians are only one point back of the Anavets. The Legion have one point and Cosmos have yet to see the win column. Winner of this round-robin series will represent Prince Albert in the midget playoffs in Saskatchewan starting this month. In the Anavet-Legion game, Bruce provided the big punch for Anavets scoring four goals, three of them on solo effort jobs. Taylor added the fifth counter. Turner rifled two in for Legion and Howard the other. Anderson led the Columbians to their masterful win over Cosmos with three goals. Studer and Fiddler added two counters apiece with singletons going to Horvath, Ching and Leler. Robeson and Yoos split the scoring honors for the losing Columbians. The round-robin series continues next Monday at the arena with the Legion meeting the Cosmos and the Anavets the Columbians. Saturday afternoon the juvenile division of the P.A.N.H.L. see action in their round-robin series starting at 1:30 p.m. at the Minto Arena.

Rangers Beat Losing Streak; Detroiters Extend Margin

New York's hot and cold Rangers shouldered their way out of a three-game losing streak at Chicago last night when they downed the tailend Black Hawks 3-1. At Detroit the league-leading Red Wings moved ahead with a 5-3 win over Montreal Canadiens. The Blueshirts' victory failed to hoist them out of fifth place in the National Hockey League, but moved them to within four points of the fourth-place Boston Bruins. Detroit's win gave them a 12-point lead over the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs. Spoils Shutout The Rangers took a first-period lead at Chicago on Gaye Stewart's goal at 9:39, and went in front 2-0 when Herb Dickenson came through at 6:30 of the middle session. Steve Witiuk spoiled Chuck Rayner's shutout with the Hawks' lone tally at 11:46 of the final stanza and Edgar Laprade pushed in New York's insurance marker at 18:35. The action was rough at

Tribe Moves Into Tie With P.A. Trounce Oil Kings 5-1

HUMBOLDT, Sask. - (CP) - Humboldt Indians last night spoiled Edmonton Oil Kings opening of a Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League tour when they tripped up the Oil Kings 5-1 in an interleague contest here. The loss dropped the Oil Kings into fourth place in the Western Canada Junior League, two points behind Calgary Buffaloes - who downed Crow's Nest Coalers 7-5 at Calgary. Indians moved into a second place tie with Prince Albert Mintos in the Saskatchewan League. Humboldt took a 2-0 lead in the first period and matched Edmonton's singleton in the second before blasting home another unanswered pair in the third. Kuzma Gets Trio Frank Kuzma led the victors with three goals. Laurie Bursaw and Oscar Hanson got the others. George Townsend scored the only Edmonton goal. Indian netminder Glen Laughren was easily the most outstanding man on the ice. Laughren has been the backbone of the club since he took over the position at the first of the year, allowing only 20 goals in 11 games. The ace goalie was especially good in the second period when he stopped Oil King marksmen from point blank range on several occasions. Unable to Beat Goals Kuzma was on the spot to bang in Al Pyett's rebound early in the first to give Indians the lead. Then Bursaw took a set-up pass from Dave Wall for a rink-long dash and gave Laurie Hodgson no chance to save. Oil Kings came back late in the period but couldn't figure out Laughren. Indians went three up in the second when Hanson's shot was deflected into the net from an Oil King player's skate. Edmonton rallied following this one and poured rubber at Laughren, finally beating him when Townsend took Fraser's pass from the backboards and scored cleanly. Completes Hat Trick The opening face off in the third period sent Indians up one more. Kuzma scoring at the 50-second mark. Kuzma completed his hat trick late in the period when he scored on a long backhand that caught Hodgson napping. Indians stole a page from Moose Jaw Canucks' books when they took up a collection to pay Scotty Munro's fine imposed following a ruckus here Wednesday night. Munro was fined $25 when he was ejected from the game with Medicine Hat Tigers. HUMBOLDT - Goal, Laughren; defence, Andre, Pyett, Heinrich, Asleson; forwards, Voykin, Wilson, Wall, Bursaw, Panagabko, Bellevue, Hanson, Royal. Officials - R. Parker and T. Fredericks of Humboldt. Bengals, Buffs Turn in Wins

REGINA. - App Dorohoy's third-period goal last night gave the road-weary Medicine Hat Tigers a surprising 4-3 victory over the league-leading Regina Pats in a Western Canada Junior Hockey League game here. The win was Tigers' first in eight games and marked the end of a lengthy road trip through the Saskatchewan Junior League. Pats remained on top of the league and Tigers at the bottom. Dorohoy's winning goal came at the half-way mark of the final period after the clubs had battled to a 1-1 tie in the first period and a 3-3 deadlock in the second. CALGARY. - Calgary Buffaloes last night moved into sole possession of third place in the Western Canada Junior Hockey League when they blasted Crow's Nest Coalers 7-5 in a rough league game here. The win put Buffs two points ahead of Edmonton Oil Kings who lost 5-1 to Humboldt. Coalers remained in sixth place in the western circuit. Mick Gilday topped the scorers with two goals, Remi Brisson, Ken McTeer and Andy Port getting the others. For Crow's Nest it was Gortveira who won the game with three, Gene Achtymichuk and Walt Trentint.

Walsh Wins Curling Crown With Narrow Win Over Welsh

WINNIPEG. - Billy Walsh going home. Welsh built up a two-house but Walsh took out one with his first rock. Jimmy drew in to lay two again but Walsh threw a runner knocking out one of the counters and the game was over. Welsh had only one more rock to throw and was conceded two points on the end. Welsh's rink was the same one he led to victory for the Dominion title in 1947 at Saint John, N. B. Alex Welsh played third with Jack Reid, "second, and Harry Moss, lead. Score By Ends Was: Welsh 201 001 010 202-9 Welsh 010 100 304 010-10 Walsh, a virtual unknown laying his first rocks in the provincial final, took a commanding lead from the former Dominion champion after the sixth end. Held 4-2 Lead Welsh held a 4-2 lead after the first six ends but his front end began to miss badly going into the seventh. Walsh came up with a three-ender on the seventh and added a four-ender on the ninth to take a 9-5 lead going into the 10th. Welsh cut the lead to two on the 10th end but Walsh got one on the 11th to come home three-up. On the 11th end Walsh drew to within a foot of the button, edging out Welsh's shot-rock by a scant half-inch. The rocks were so close that a measure was called. Tosses Runner The point put Walsh three-up

Mintos, College Play to 3-3 Tie

NORTH BATTLEFORD. - St. Thomas College, of North Battleford, and the Prince Albert Mintos last night played to a 3-3 deadlock in an exhibition game here. Both clubs played to a scoreless tie in the first period and the Mintos moved ahead 2-1 after the second. St. Thomas outscored Mintos 2-1 in the finale. Dale Sweeney put Prince Albert ahead in the first at 1:45 but St. Thomas got that marker back just minutes later from the stick of Czuy. Kassian gave Prince Albert the lead again at 14:10. In the final frame St. Thomas rammed home two goals to take a 3-2 lead. Bayne sniped the equalizer at 8:40 and Jansen sent the Collegians ahead 3-2 at 17:50. With only seconds remaining in the game Dobni fired in the equalizer for Prince Albert.

Gamble Pays As S'toon Ties

SASKATOON. - Calgary Stampede and Saskatoon Quakers last night played to a 5-5 tie in a wide open Pacific Coast Hockey League game held here before a crowd of 3,000 fans. The tie improved the standings of both clubs, putting Quakers within four points of the leading New Westminster Royals and giving Calgary a two point edge over the eighth place Victoria Cougars. Veteran Norm Larson led the Calgary attack with three goals in an all round fine display. Ernie Dickens and Cy Thomas were the other Stampeder marksmen. George Agar and Bing Jukes each drew two assists. George Senick, Chuck McCullough, Cy Rouse, Alex Kaleta and Neil Strain did the Saskatoon scoring. Carl Kaiser and Johnnie Chad headed the assist parade with two apiece. Quakers' coach Doug Bentley pulled his goalie at 18:45 in the last period to gamble for the tying goal. It worked and Neil Strain saved a split in points for Saskatoon. The first period ended in a 2-2 tie and Calgary led 4-3 at the end of the second. Quakers outscored the visitors 2-1 in the third session in their desperate bid to gain at least a draw.

27th Brigade Called Best Unit Guarding Rhine Defence Line

By WALDO DRAKE
(From The Los Angeles Times)
HANOVER — The most cheering sight in the otherwise drab picture of western defence along the Rhine-Alps line is the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade, which has just come to northern Germany to bolster the four ground divisions of the British Army of the Rhine.

Although these 6500 young Canadian volunteers have been in Europe only since last December, they already present a better picture of a battle-ready fighting team than any other allied combat unit in Europe, with two exceptions: the U.S. 1st Infantry Division and the two brigades of U.S. armored cavalry.

The Canadians' performance is the more remarkable because the brigade is made up with cadres taken from 42 permanent and reserve units from all 10 Canadian Provinces, from Newfoundland across the prairies and the Selkirk to Victoria.

Commander Spark Plug
Although they already have been caught in the deadening, bureaucratic web of the U.S.-British supply line "infrastructure" in Germany, those Canadians have managed to weld themselves into a remarkably co-ordinated unit with a minimum of facilities and assistance. (Parenthetically, the Canadians are paying their own way; since they are "nonoccupation" troops, the German Federal republic does not pay their maintenance, communication and domicile costs as it does for the U.S., British, French, Belgian, Norwegian and Danish forces here.)

The spark plug of the new Canadian expeditionary force in Europe is its 41-year-old commander, Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, CBE, DSO, CD. Brig. Walsh, a strikingly handsome, blue-eyed Ontario Irishman, is a professional military engineer, quiet in speech and demeanor but with an endless capacity for hard work.

He seemingly has transferred to all hands in the brigade his own tireless energy, for everybody in all battalions seems to be busy seven days a week, trying to shake the outfit down into full readiness for war.

The weather here in Lower Saxony has been execrable, even for Germany, through the last half of January. Yet every day Canadian platoons not on field or gunnery training were on six-mile cross-country runs through the rain and slush—just to keep in physical trim.

High Esprit de Corps
This reporter was with the brigade's Highland Battalion when it conducted its first field battle problem since arrival from Canada. Although most of the men had no more than six months' training before coming to Germany, they handled themselves like veterans; in road discipline of both marching columns and transport, in concealment on the flat countryside, and in dispersal when attacking.

This sort of performance is possible from these green youngsters for a number of reasons, including: first, a high esprit de corps, inspired by competent officers who are both young and sympathetic; second, everybody in the 27th Brigade is a volunteer, with full understanding of why he is here and how long he will stay in Germany; finally, all hands in the brigade are well clothed, well fed and well paid: a Canadian private in Germany earns $100 a month, nearly four times the pay of his opposite in the British Army of the Rhine.

British military tradition plays a strong part in the esprit of all units, yet all hands in the brigade are quick to emphasize that they are all Canadians and that the 27th Infantry Brigade was organized last May 4 for the specific purpose of a purely Canadian contribution to the common defence of the west.

All of the brigade's senior battalion and staff officers are Canadian army career professionals, virtually all of them, like Brig. Walsh, with combat experience in the 1st Canadian Infantry Division in World War Two. Thirty per cent of the junior officers are regulars and the remainder are reserve officers who have accepted permanent commissions.

Thirty per cent of the enlisted personnel were reservists and the remainder enlisted for specific service in Germany. Canada has no conscription and none is now contemplated.

Different Arms
Married personnel of all ranks will return to Canada after a year's duty in Germany. Unmarried officers and men will remain here two years. Replacements for the first homebound personnel are now being trained in Canada.

So much for the credit side. It also must be written that the 27th Brigade is being subjected to several serious obstacles arising from British-American military bureaucracy. The worst are these:

They have been given the obsolete British Lee-Enfield rifle. The brigade has been organized into three battalion combat teams, of which vital elements are the armored and artillery support units. While in Canada, the Royal Canadian Dragoons squadron used U.S. M46 medium tanks and its crews were sent to Ft. Knox, where they trained in the new U.S. M47 (Patton) tanks. Now they have been equipped with British Centurion tanks which, it must be admitted, they like better than the American Pattons.

Some Worry
Principally because it had adopted American weapons in Canada but now is under British command, the brigade has a melange of British and American mortars and automatic weapons, which will require ammunition supply from both the British and American intakes of the pipeline.

Concerning transport: the Canadians brought over U.S. jeeps and where permitted to bring Canadian-made light trucks. But they were told the British Army of the Rhine would supply vehicles for combat transport of the brigade's three infantry battalions.

This worries the Canadians a little, because the British Army itself is acutely in need of the new vehicles it was supposed to get from Britain's lagging rearmament program.

Production Of Steel Increased In Brazil

By F. ZENHA MACHADO
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil plans to make all the steel she needs within a few years. If she can do this, she can save a lot of foreign exchange or use it for other goods and services.

Also her expanding economy will not have to depend upon what other steel producing countries may have available for export.

Major expansion will be at the Volta Redonda steel mill, built with United States help, which has been operating since 1946. Volta Redonda now produces about 420,000 tons of steel a year. One phase of expansion, now underway, is expected to bring it to 700,000 tons in several months.

Expansion Approved
President Getulio Vargas has approved a second expansion of the mill, owned by Companhia Siderurgica Nacional, a joint government-private enterprise. Detailed technical studies, including the financial, have been started.

The aim is, by around 1954, to expand Volta Redonda to its full capacity of 1,000,000 tons a year. This is about what the country now uses—40 per cent of it imported.

"Of course," says Volta Redonda's assistant director, Eivaldo Simas Pereira, "the country's consumption will be larger by then, but so will the production of other plants."

United States Loans
The present expansion is being carried on with a loan of $25,000,000 granted about a year ago by the U.S. export-import bank and an increase in the company's capital of an equivalent amount.

The town of Volta Redonda, near the mill in the state of Rio de Janeiro, has been growing, too. On the site of a previous cattle ranch, it now has a population of 35,000 and more than 3,000 homes. Eight hundred more are under construction.

Planned to operate entirely with raw materials, 99.8 per cent of Volta Redonda's production is consumed in Brazil, and more than half of it in the fast-growing industrial state of Sao Paulo. The value of Volta Redonda's production in 1950 was about 1,200,000 cruzeiros — a saving for Brazil of about $80,000,000 in foreign exchange which would have been required to import the steel.

When the plant reaches full capacity, the annual saving in foreign exchange will amount to about $145,000,000.

DR. LOGAN'S WIFE

By Diana Gaines

Peter Surinov was glad when Janet Logan got in that he had a new automobile. The red leather upholstery, too, had seemed an extravagance at the time, but now he felt like patting it. Her eyes were on the gleaming dashboard. Even the clock worked.

Janet had not seen him since that day on the hilltop when she had given him the check that had brought so much trouble. She knew Peter had seen her — blue-white, stiff, cold from her meal of death (had her mouth hung slack?). But at any rate his last glimpse of her, however corpse-like she may have looked, had not dampened his ardor. He had phoned. He had pleaded. And she had put him off with so many excuses that she was not sure where inclination ended and fear began.

"How do you like my new car?" he asked, as it purred away from the curb. "The windows work by pushbutton. Look," he demonstrated the one on her side.

"Oh, wonderful," she said vaguely, backing away from his arm. Spoiled. She was used to luxury cars. "You're looking very well," he said.

"Thank you. I'm fine now. Practically sane." Janet opened her purse, took out a cigarette. There was a packet of matches too, but her hands were trembling. She preferred to let Peter hold the car lighter to the cigarette which she braced like a flute against all four fingers.

"How's your work at Starr's coming? Do you like it any better?" "Not much," he said. "But I like the salary. First time I've had a car that wasn't second-hand."

"It's really a beautiful car, Peter," she insisted belatedly. They passed Chagiantz's jewelry shop, and glanced at and away from each other. A few doors down was the rust hut which fronted the fashionable Trade Winds Restaurant. Peter slowed down.

"How about a drink?" "Really, Peter, I can't. I'd love to—some other time. I have to get home. Mother is leaving for Chicago tonight. We're having an early supper so that she can make her train."

each, flailing in the current while pretending to stroll the banks, became too preoccupied for speech. Peter indulged in fantasies of abduction, while Janet with practical nervousness as to whether he would some day think her old as she had thought Gus old.

"Was this your day off?" she asked finally. "No, I just left early. I phoned your home this afternoon. Your mother told me you didn't have your car."

"Won't they care — your employers, I mean?" "I don't think so. I'm in the executive bracket now. No clock-punching for the fallen. I just told Mr. Starr my girl was in a jam."

"I'm not your girl." "You will be." "You're awfully sure of yourself, aren't you?" "One of us has to be." Janet had to laugh. "Peter, you're impossible."

"That's better. I like you when you laugh. It's a good sound. Janet, when are you going to stop fighting us?" Janet looked out of the window. She dragged on her cigarette, blew smoke.

"Peter, if you must know, I don't think it's right for me to be seen with you. People have done enough talking about us. Thank goodness it doesn't reach my ears, but I can imagine the gossip. I'm not going to feed the kitty."

"You don't mean that seriously, Janet. You can't. You have more integrity than to be intimidated by gossip. Besides, you're overrating your news value. We're yesterday's headlines at the hospital."

"We could be tomorrow's." "So what?" Janet sighed. "I was beginning to feel almost quiet inside. I don't want to get all stirred up again."

Struggle Predicted For Alta. Gas Supply

SEATTLE (AP) — The international struggle for Alberta's natural gas supplies moved into higher gear yesterday. The Feb. 15 deadline on cancellation of natural gas contracts between Canadian producers, the Northwest Natural Gas Co. and Seattle and Portland Distributors has been extended three months.

N. Henry Gellert, president of the Seattle Gas Co., said. It continues the "inside track" that Northwest Natural Gas, headed by A. Faison Dixon, of New York, was in competition among pipeline companies seeking a permit to export natural gas from Alberta, he added.

High Government Levels
Gellert made the announcement as heads of gas distributing companies in Portland and Vancouver, B.C., joined him in conference with Ray C. Fish, of Houston, Tex. Fish is chairman of the board of directors of the Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp., which is a rival of Northwest Natural Gas in seeking an Alberta export permit.

Fish, accompanied by a group of Texas and Louisiana officials, has just returned from conferences with government officials at Ottawa and Washington, D.C. He said he expects the ultimate decisions on natural gas to be made "at the highest governmental levels."

New Scottish Title Seen For UK Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II already has the experts guessting on the title she will be known by in Scotland.

The first Queen Elizabeth reigned before the crowns of England and Scotland were joined in the reign of James I. Queen Elizabeth I thus was never Queen of Scots. So the point is expected to arise as to whether the new monarch should be called Queen Elizabeth II of England but Queen Elizabeth I of Scotland.

Other News Forgotten For Story of Dead King

LONDON (AP) — The death of King George VI crowded almost all other news off London newspapers yesterday. They filled their scant space with column after column of the story.

The Evening Standard devoted its first eight pages to that story, and nothing else, or two-thirds of its entire space. The Star used eight of its 16 pages to tell it and the News used 1/2 of its six pages.

Canada Seeks U.S. Facilities For Drying 'Tough' Harvest

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is negotiating for use of drying and storage facilities in the United States for large quantities of her western wheat which graded tough and damp because of adverse harvesting conditions.

Trade Minister Howe said last night it now is "expected that substantial quantities of western wheat will be shipped in bond to the United States for drying." In addition every effort is being made to use the full drying capacity of all terminal elevators and about 36,000,000 bushels of grain have already been dried.

A lot of this wheat is going to be sold to Britain and Europe. In a general statement on the wheat situation, the minister said of Canada's estimated 531,000,000 bushel western wheat crop about 150,000,000 bushels have not been threshed. Of that already threshed, 325,000,000 bushels now are available for marketing after allowing for farm seed and feed requirements.

Tough Grains Accepted
Of the 250,000,000 bushels of wheat delivered by producers to date, 116,000,000 bushels have been accepted as tough or damp wheat. The marketing position of oats and barley is not so favorable, the minister said. But some 54,000,000 bushels of tough and damp oats and barley have been delivered by producers.

This progress in moving tough and damp grain from farms has been made possible by the co-operation of elevator companies and their agents, the Board of Grain Commissioners for Canada, the transport controller and the railways," the minister said. The wheat board has been selling substantial quantities of tough wheat for milling in Canada and for shipment to overseas customers. As soon as the effects of the unfavorable harvest became known, the board "arranged with the United Kingdom and European buyers to take substantial quantities of tough wheat."

"In this way, buyers at home and abroad have helped to relieve the situation," the minister said. "Some 30,000,000 bushels of tough wheat have been shipped eastward from the Lakehead to date, and western mills have also taken substantial quantities of tough wheat. Large sales of tough oats and barley have been made by the board."

The wheat board has been negotiating for use of drying facilities and storage space in the United States and the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have co-operated by setting a special freight tariff on such shipments.

In a survey made last November, it was estimated that producers would deliver 126,000,000 bushels of wheat from mid-November to next March 31. These estimated winter marketings, the minister said, include most of the threshed tough and damp wheat on farms at mid-November of which 80,000,000 bushels now have been delivered.
